Saleen Video Manager Serial Key, with its simple and clear interface, can be your best friend when it comes to editing and managing videos. Lloyd George takes a jab at the Liberals for political reasons Liberal leader Michael Ignatieff says a broadside from former prime minister Lloyd George will have no effect on the government's political fortunes. Mr. Ignatieff, who chairs a new group called the Liberal Party of Canada, says he and fellow Liberal members do not welcome Mr. George's reference to the Liberal Party as a "treasonous" body in a written submission to the Liberal Party. In an article entitled "Our History, our Legacy, Our Vision," Mr. George accuses the Liberal Party of betraying the heritage of its predecessor, the Liberal-Conservative Party, by its complete submission to the United States under Stephen Harper. Story continues below advertisement "What we have experienced in the past ten years is, quite simply, the antithesis of what we stood for," writes Mr. George, who led the Liberal Party in the 1930s. "We stand today for a new liberal Canada. It is not naïve, nor a return to the past. It is a real vision for the future. The Liberal Party needs to open up, grow and evolve." Mr. George goes on to suggest that the Liberal Party be reformed. "I would encourage each and every Liberal Member of Parliament to ask themselves whether they want to continue to be part of a party that is willing to be anything to anyone, and to go anywhere, just so long as the American President is willing to support their efforts." The Liberal leader's response Mr. Ignatieff says Mr. George's submission will have no effect on the Liberal Party's fortunes. "We have set out a new vision for the Liberal Party of Canada that we believe should be a mirror of the nation. And there are some pretty strong comments in there that are factually inaccurate," he said. "I don't think this has any impact at all." Story continues below advertisement Mr. Ignatieff spoke before the recent dissolution of Parliament. Mr. George, who left office in 1935, died in January at the age of 103. His widow, Margaret, said the letter was written to help bring attention to the Liberal Party's historical strength. Retaining walls are commonly used to provide a landscaping feature in
